The 8th East Asian Conference on

Conflict and Harmony in Eurasia in the 21 Century: Dynamics and Aesthetics

CHUNG-ANG UNIVERSITY, SEOUL, KOREA

June 3-4, 2017

In collaboration with

ICCEES, JCREES, CAREERCA, AND KASEUS

Conference Theme

The Korean Association of Slavic and East European Studies (KASEUS) will host the 8th East Asian Conference on Slavic and Eurasian Studies, with the support of CAREECAS (China) and JCREES (Japan) at Chung-Ang University in Seoul on June 3-4, 2017.

Since the collapse of USSR in 1991, there has emerged a dynamic fluctuation of conflict and cooperation in the transitional process of the post-socialist states of Eurasia. On the one hand, active economic cooperation among Eurasian countries and their neighboring countries led to the establishment of the EAEU (Eurasian Economic Union). On the other hand, there still exist many kinds of territorial disputes and civil wars in the Eurasian countries, and clashes of social and cultural values.

This phenomenon is not unique to Eurasia. Various conflicts remain around us. Socio-political conflicts in the process of democratization and civil wars result in increasing numbers of migrants and refugees, posing challenges for democratic values, and strengthening the political influence of right-wing political parties.

This global proliferation of conflicts raises concerns about the return of geo-political conflict and the Cold War. However, conflicts can provide a society with dynamics that are necessary for the development of a society through a process of proper management, although failure to manage conflicts can cause a more serious crisis. For this reason, understanding the conflicts in the post-socialist period can serve as a foundation for understanding the prosperous future of Eurasia, including Northeast Asia.
